Overview of the Numerical Features of the Psalms in Book IV

The 17 psalms in Book IV divide into the pattern 17 = 11 + 6, as in Book III:

Psalms 90-100 (11 mainly divine kingship psalms – 1 Mosaic, 10 nameless)

Psalms 101-106 (6 psalms – 2 Davidic and 4 nameless)

17 psalms: 2 Davidic, 14 nameless and 1 Mosaic.

While Book III contains one Davidic psalm representing this important category of psalms, Book IV prides itself on having two Davidic psalms (101 and 103).

Another significant formal feature of the 17 psalms of Book IV is that they lack selahs. The same holds true for Book V, except for the three selahs in Psalm 140.

Moreover, the series of 23 hallelu-yahs in the Psalter start in Book IV, in Psalm 104.

The psalms in Book IV and groupings of psalms lack coherence based on 'authorship', but this does not mean that Book IV contains a conglomerate of individual psalms. Quite the contrary, I shall adduce evidence to show that Book IV is a close-knit compositional unity, divided into two distinct sections, like Book III, in the pattern 17 = 11 + 6.

To this end, let me first present the numerical aspects of the book in the following Tables:

Table XIII: supposed authorship, the number of Masoretic verses, the occurrences of the name YHWH, the word 'elohim' and other designations;

Table XIV: the number of poetic verselines, the total number of words, and the words before and after atnach (excluding the headings; no selahs present);

Table XV: the number of words, and words before and after atnach (including headings);

Table XVI: Word-count of the headings and their positioning in the first verse.

Table XIII: Masoretic verses and divine name count

Psalm	'Author'	Masoretic verses	YHWH	Elohim	Other designations
90	Moses	17	1	-	Adonaj 2 EI 1
91	No name	16	2	-	Elyon 1
92	No name	16	7	-	Elyon 1 Marom 1

101-106:48	6 psalms	187 (11x17)	43*	-	YH 1 EI 2
90-106:48	17 Psalms	323 (19x17)	104*	-	YH 3, EI 7, Elyon 2, Adon 1, Adonaj 2, Marom 1

* Excluding YHWH in the heading of 102, but including (as always) the one in the doxology (106:48).

Observations

1. The fact that the sub-group of eleven psalms (90-100) and the sub-group of six (101-106) are both made up of multiples of the divine name number 17 in terms of Masoretic verses indicates deliberate design: 136 + 187 = 323 (19 x 17).
2. The total number of occurrences of the name YHWH (including the doxology) amount to 104 (4 x 26). Elohim is absent, but EI occurs 7 times.

90-106:48	17 psalms	338 (13 x 26)	2407	1380	1027

Observation

The total number of verselines (including the doxology) in Book IV, 338 (13 x 26), is perfectly in line with the significant number of verselines in Books I, 2 and 3.

Table XV: Word-count including the headings; no selahs present

* Including hallelu-yah / halleluyah.

Observation

- The word-count, including the headings, shows some significant results:
 - Psalm 90 51 (3 x 17) words after atnach (as in Table XIV)
 - Pss. 90-92 364 (14 x 26) words in total
 - Pss. 93-94 119 (7 x 17) words before atnach (as in Table XIV)
 - Pss. 93-97 510 (30 x 17) words in total (as in Table XIV)
 - Pss. 96-99 364 (14 x 26) words in total (as in Table XIV)
 - Psalm 99 52 (2 x 26) words before atnach (as in Table XIV)
 - Pss. 101-104 731 (43 x 17) words in total.

In comparison with the results in Table XIV, excluding headings, there are several losses of divine name numbers and only one new one: the 364 (14 x 26) words of Psalms 90-92. This justifies the conclusion that the headings were not taken into consideration in the compositional process of the psalms proper. See the Introduction to Book I, Table IV, Observation 2.

However, when it comes to the total numbers of words, including the headings, 2429 (3rd column), this number appears to be significant. Together with the total number of words in Book III, 2773, the two books have altogether 5202 words, which is a multiple of 17 (306 x 17 = 153 x 17 x 2 = 9 x 17 x 17 x 2 = 5202). This is additional evidence for the 'togetherness' of Books III and IV, which are both made up of 17 psalms. I owe this observation to Dr. Jim McMillan. See the Introduction to Book III, Table XI and the Observation there, as well as the paragraph "Book IV as a Whole" below.

Table XVI: The word-count of the headings and their positioning

Psalm	'Author'	No heading	In first verse	Separate vs.	'Context'
90	Moses		4 words	-	-
91	No name	x	-	-	-
92	No name	-	-	4 words	-
93	No name	x	-	-	-
94	No name	x	-	-	-
95	No name	x	-	-	-
96	No name	x	-	-	-
97	No name	x	-	-	-
98	No name	-	1 word	-	-
99	No name	x	-	-	-
100	No name	x	2 words	-
90-100	11 psalms	8 psalms	7 words	4 words
101	David	-	2 words	-	-
102	No name	-	-	8 words	-
103	David	-	1 word	-	-
104	No name	x	-	-	-
105	No name	x	-	-	-
106	No name	-	1	-	-
90-106	17 Psalms	10 psalms	5 psalms 11 words	in 2 psalms 12 words	no 'context'

Observation

- The heading in Psalm 106 is the word halleluyah, here written as one word. Psalms 92 and 102 are the only psalms in Book IV having the heading in separate verses. Their headings contain the purpose for which the psalms were composed.

Significant Numerical Features of Book IV

The book as a whole

Psalms 90-106	323 (19 x 17) Masoretic verses
Psalms 90-106	338 (13 x 26) verselines
Psalms 90-106	104 (4 x 26) occurrences of the name YHWH

The Sub-group of Eleven Psalms: Psalms 90-100

Psalms 90-100	136 (8 x 17) Masoretic verses
Psalms 90-91	34 (2 x 17) verselines
Psalms 90	136 (8x17) words, 85 (5x17) before and 51 (3x17) after atnach
Psalms 91-92	136 (8 x 17) words before atnach
Psalms 90-92	221 (13 x 17) words before atnach
Psalms 93-94	119 (7 x 17) words before atnach
Psalms 94-95	34 (2 x 17) verselines and 119 (7 x 17) words after atnach
Psalms 93-96	182 (7 x 26) words after atnach
Psalms 90-96	102 (6 x 17) verselines
Psalms 96-97	26 verselines
Psalms 96-98	119 (7 x 17) words after atnach
Psalms 99	52 (2 x 26) words before atnach
Psalms 96-99	364 (14 x 26) words in total

The Sub-group of Six Psalms: Psalms 101-106

Psalms 101-106	187 (11 x 17) Masoretic verses
Psalms 101	52 (2 x 26) words before atnach
Psalms 102	204 (12 x 17) words in total
Psalms 103	78 (3 x 26) words after atnach
Psalms 106	51 (3 x 17) verselines

Note: some of the above numbers may be due to coincidence, but certainly not all of them.

The Compositional Structure of Book IV

90 91 92 93 94 95 96 97 98 99 100 (11)

101 102 103 104 105 106 (6) 11 + 6 = 17
